

Certainly. I will proceed under the assumption that the report should meet common academic/professional standards. Here are my suggestions for each point:

1. Target Audience: Likely compliance and risk officers, legal/regulatory professionals, and academics interested in AML policy. I will use a formal, scholarly tone with sufficient background detail for readers with some legal/financial expertise.
2. Citation Style: In the absence of a specific style request, I'll use a standard legal/academic format (for example, APA or Chicago with footnotes). I will ensure all citations follow a consistent format.
3. Formatting: I will format the report in Times New Roman, 12 pt, double-spaced, with 1-inch margins, which is typical for professional reports. This ensures readability and space for potential editorial comments.
4. Deliverables: I will prepare the timeline infographic and summary table as separate files (PNG or PDF), and refer to them in the report. The narrative report itself will be a Word or PDF document (embedding any simple charts or graphics as needed).
5. Deadline: Please let me know your timeline. If there's no specific deadline, I will aim for about two weeks from now to ensure depth and thoroughness.

Feel free to adjust any of the above (e.g. if you prefer a specific citation style, different font, or tighter timeline). If you have any additional preferences or constraints, just let me know!
